Pausanias d. C470

Taking of Byzantium (Spartan) Pausanias, the Spartan was given command of the expedition against Byzantium which was still held by Persia. He corresponded with Lerxes and offered to betray the Greeks. A mutiny broke out because of his arrogance; Aristides & Cimón of Athens became leaders and Pausanias was recalled. Charges was prepared that he fled to Athens & took refuge at the shrine where he was bound to death
